

Strings Team

About

The string team at Berkshire Music Trust is a close knit team and there is a mix of violinists, cellists and even a double bass player. The team teach complete beginners all the way up to those preparing for Conservatoire. Teaching is a mix of individuals, groups and even sometimes whole class violin or cello in both schools and also in our music centres. At our music centres, you will find a pyramid of string ensembles where pupils can progress right up to our prestigious county youth orchestra and county string ensemble. There are lots of opportunities to get involved with the wider work, from early years to Dementia cafes and to working with special needs pupils and the string team enjoy getting involved. The string team are an integral part of some of the live performance work that Berkshire Music offers from performing in the band in our Junior Music Festivals to providing a string quartet for some enrichments activities in schools. We really look forward to welcoming some like-minded string players to our midst so:

Come and experience music education the Berkshire Music way!
