

Woodwind Team

About

The woodwind team is a friendly and supportive group of teachers, all with a range of talents and experiences. We have teachers who have come from backgrounds of military music, classroom teaching, some who have joined the team as graduates on our internship programme, and some who have been with Berkshire Music Trust for many, many years.

All our woodwind teachers teach on a number of different instruments across the week, and we can help you develop your skills on other instruments outside your specialism if required. We have flute, clarinet, saxophone, oboe, and bassoon specialists in the team, meaning there is always someone to go to for advice when you need it. The woodwind team teaches beginners all the way through to students taking diplomas and preparing to take their studies further at conservatoire or university, and everything in between! We teach in a range of settings across the county, including mainstream schools, specialist provision schools, and music centres, with most teachers visiting at least two or three venues a day. Lessons can be individual, small group, and you'll even find many whole-class lessons happening in our primary schools. There are opportunities to be involved in a range of projects offered by Berkshire Music Trust, including SEND work, singing cafes and holiday courses.

We have a range of ensembles that our teachers work with, including a tiered system of wind bands across the county, a flute ensemble, clarinet ensemble, saxophone ensemble, double reed ensembles and even a specialist bassoon ensemble. Many of our teachers are also frequently involved in coaching the Berkshire Youth Symphony Orchestra.

Come and experience music education the Berkshire Music way!
